STRATEGIES

Gain experience with computers and relevant software programs.
Interpreters and translators who have expertise in a particular area such as law or medicine may find more opportunities.
Develop skills in negotiation and the ability to work well under stress.
Most people who work in this field freelance. Show language expertise, initiative, and motivation as this is a very competitive field.

SERVİCE AND EDUCATION

Translation/Interpretation
- Teaching
- Tutoring
- Educational Administration Including:
  - Student Affairs
  - Study Abroad Programs
  - International Houses or Cultural Centers
  - International Student Services
- Linguistics

- Research

K-12 schools, public and private
- Universities/Colleges
- Pre-schools
- Professional language schools
- English language institutes
- Overseas dependents’ schools
- Foreign study exchange programs
- Libraries
- Adult education programs
- Religious and volunteer organizations
- International organizations
- Law enforcement agencies
- Social service agencies
- Nonprofit organizations
- Hospitals

- Obtain state teacher licensure for K-12 teaching.
- Earn a graduate degree for college or university teaching opportunities.
- Develop superior written and oral communication skills in the English language including proper sentence structure and comprehensive vocabulary.
- Minor or double major in another subject that you could also teach.
- Get experience as a teaching assistant or tutor.
- Become familiar with the cultural base of your language (literature, art, politics, etc.) as well as with cultural traditions.
- Consider teaching English as a foreign language (overseas). Research courses and certifications for teaching English to non-native speakers.
- Volunteer with government programs such as VISTA or community programs such as ESL classes.
- Work abroad through volunteer programs or missions.
- Plan to take both written and oral examinations to become an interpreter.
- Notify local hospitals, schools, and chambers of commerce of your availability to translate or interpret for international visitors.
- Earn a graduate degree in a field of specialty, e.g. Student Affairs Administration, counseling, or law.
GENERAL INFORMATION

- Choose an additional academic area of study to supplement the foreign language, preferably one that requires a high degree of technical skill. Most people with foreign language ability use those skills to assist them in a different career field such as business, education, journalism, law, etc.

- Consider which language and culture appeals to you most and the level of foreign language ability you will need to acquire for success in your career. Possible languages to study: Spanish, German, French, Italian, Portuguese, Russian, Japanese, Chinese, Korean, Hebrew, Arabic, Iranian languages, Indic languages, and Turkic languages. Some languages will offer more job opportunities than other languages in various industries or geographic locales. Some are considered critical needs and will offer the most opportunities.

- Related courses to study include geography, history, civilization, foreign relations, international law, and world economics.

- Plan to attend a private language institute to learn additional languages and cultures.

- Utilize a number of learning methods to develop language fluency. Combine listen and repeat drills, textbooks, audio lessons, and learning apps.

- Travel to a foreign country or study abroad in international exchange programs to develop your language skills and international/intercultural competency.

- Study and practice your foreign language skills by reading foreign newspapers, magazines, and books.

- Seek opportunities to interact with international students on your campus or members of your local community. Host international students, join relevant student organizations, and participate in international campus events.

- Watch foreign movies and listen to foreign broadcasts to maintain your fluency.

- Volunteer your language skills to churches, community organizations, and programs that work with people who speak your target language.

- Correspond with someone from a foreign country.

- Contact professional associations and read their publications to learn about job opportunities.

- Research job postings on the Internet to get an idea of jobs in which knowledge of a foreign language is useful.

- Participate in summer programs, co-ops, and internships to improve your skills.

- Network with others in the field to learn about job opportunities.

- In general, international positions are competitive and difficult to obtain. Be proactive in developing the skills and experiences international employers seek.

- Get your foot in the door in domestic positions because many international employers promote current employees into international positions.
