

Collingwood Distinguished
Lecture for Diversity

Dr. Crystal Williams, “Charting Your Path and Deploying
Your Talents in Service of Others”

Wednesday, April 7, 2021

3:00 – 4:00 p.m. EDT

For SUNY Fredonia’s spring Collingwood Distinguished Lecture for Diversity, Dr. Crystal Williams will deliver a virtual presentation, “Charting Your Path and Deploying Your Talents in Service of Others.”

Dr. Crystal Williams is a writer, advocate, and advisor. Raised in Detroit, Michigan, and Madrid, Spain, she holds degrees from New York University and Cornell University. Dr. Williams was on faculty at Reed College in Portland, Oregon, for thirteen years before moving in Fall 2013 to Bates College, where she was a Professor of English and a senior administrator. In late 2017 she joined Boston University as its inaugural associate provost for diversity & inclusion. She is now Vice President and Associate Provost for Community & Inclusion and Professor of English at Boston University, with an expanded portfolio that includes Boston University’s Arts Initiative, Organizational Development and Learning function, and the university’s Living and Learning Centers. Additionally, Williams serves as a regular advisor to senior leaders, organizations, and colleges across the nation, explicitly concerning leadership development, recruitment, retention, inclusive climate development, and organizational capacity building in the Arts and Higher Education.

SPONSORED BY: SUNY FREDONIA OFFICE OF DIVERSITY, EQUITY, AND INCLUSION/DIVERSITY, EQUITY, AND INCLUSION COUNCIL

Generous support for this program is provided by the Collingwood Distinguished Lecture for Diversity Endowment held at the Fredonia College Foundation.

Registration required:

<https://bit.ly/3024mfA>

(Can’t virtually attend? Registrants will receive a link to the recording.)

For questions, contact:
diversity@fredonia.edu

fredonia.edu